the campaign

The Scottish Hazards Campaign network campaigns for improved worker health and safety throughout Scotland and joins with others internationally to campaign for improved working conditions throughout the world. It is part of the UK Hazards Campaign and the European Hazards Network.

The Scottish Hazards Campaign is a network of individuals and organisations interested and involved in workplace health. It includes trade union branches, trade union health & safety representatives and officials, occupational health and safety professionals and specific campaigns, e.g. RSI, Asbestos Families Against Corporate Killers (FACK).

The hazards facing people in their everyday working lives are ever changing. As new processes and materials emerge new health problems develop. There is a need to continually monitor these developments, to actively campaign for safer and healthier workplaces, and to ensure improved health and safety legislation and more effective enforcement by the HSE and Local Authorities.

The Scottish Hazards Campaign acts as a focal point in Scotland for those committed to improving workplace health and safety. Activities include:

- Networking to share information and skills
- Training and education
- Workplace health information and advice
- Campaigning and Lobbying

The Campaign meets four times a year, giving members an opportunity to network, learn and plan lobbying and campaigning activities. In addition, each year the Campaign organises a major one day Scottish Hazards Conference and at least two free ½ day educational seminars on key current workplace health topics.

Scottish Hazards is also part of UK and International Campaigns:

UK Hazards Campaign is a national network established in 1988. It draws together Hazards Centres, Occupational Health Projects, Health and Safety Groups and Trade Union Council's Safety Committees, specific campaigns and individual health and safety activists.

European Work Hazards Network is a network of national networks with the shared aim of improving working conditions in Europe and the rest of the world. It includes networks in Austria, Denmark, England, Finland, Germany, Ireland, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, Scotland and Spain. It links with similar networks in Eastern Europe, East Asia, Southern Africa, South and Middle America and the USA.

Scottish Hazards Centre

A major aim of the Scottish Hazards Campaign is to establish a Scottish Hazards Centre in order to build on and expand the Campaign's work. Your donation will help make this a reality.

The Scottish Hazards Campaign is grateful to the STUC for its continued support and to members of the network for their commitment to the Hazards movement.

Donations

The Scottish Hazards Campaign is open to any person / organization who identifies with our aims.

There is no membership fee to be part of Scottish Hazards, however, as we have no external funding source, we rely on donations from individual members of the network and Trade Union branches to be able to carry out the work we have outlined in this leaflet, including work toward the establishment of a Scottish Hazards Centre.

All donors become members of the network. This means receiving regular information from Scottish Hazards about key issues and upcoming events and invitations to regular Hazards meetings and free educational seminars.

If you wish to make a donation you can do this in a number of ways;

- Make a direct payment whilst attending one of our seminars.
- Send a cheque for an amount that you feel appropriate, cheques made payable to Scottish Hazards Campaign Group.
- Open a standing order with your bank to make a monthly or an annual donation directly to the Campaign account:

We ask that Trade Union branches make a donation of at least £100.00 a year.
